First-generation American and Columbus, OH resident, Sophia Fifer is an advocate, mother, #metoo survivor, pageant queen, philanthropist and social changemaker.

Sophia has spent over 15 years advancing her career in philanthropy. She has worked with multiple social justice and gender equity nonprofits, helping them leverage an intersectionality- and equity-driven lens to further their missions. At present, she works as Director of Communications and Executive Director of the NiSource Charitable Foundation.

As one of the founding members of the nonpartisan Ohio Patriots Political Action Committee, Sophia brings women leaders together from both sides of the aisle to engage in important conversations—whether regarding economic equity, access to education, or the health and safety of their surrounding communities. She is passionate about increasing female representation in public office and working to narrow the gap between female political power and buying power.

Since 2014, Sophia has volunteered as a Speakers Bureau Volunteer for RAINN (the Rape, Abuse, and Incest National Network) and continues to volunteer her time and share her story in support of other victims of sexual violence. She also serves on the Survivor Advisory Council of the Ohio Alliance to End Sexual Violence and the Board of Directors of the Women's Fund of Central Ohio.

“To change the world, you do not need to be male. To make a difference, you do not need to be big. Last, to be heard, you do not need to be loud.”
